Library For All Favourites

The Sea Is Everything To Me
Molly Sevaru
Fiction

This beautiful celebration of the sea is one of the first books Library For All published, making it especially close to our hearts. The dreamy watercolour illustrations have provided a quality benchmark for our vibrant collections.

LFASKU00043

I’ll Ride With You
Michelle Worthington
Fiction

We love this book for its messages around friendship, resilience and diversity. This story was written by award-winning Australian author Michelle Worthington, a generous champion of our mission and commitment to creative partnerships.

I Am Papua New Guinea: Maryanne Lives In Vanimo
Maryanne Danti
Fiction

The I Am…Stories From Our Global Village series shares the experiences of children in diverse communities, reaching from remote Papua New Guinea through to Colombia, Sweden and beyond. In 2018 Maryanne Lives In Vanimo was the most downloaded book on the Digital Public Library of America Open Bookshelf!

ISBN 978-1-925795-56-1
LFASKU00133

I Can See A Cuscus
Bruce Sagata
Fiction

This book was produced during a writers’ workshop in Port Moresby. This is one way in which our work serves to upskill emerging writers, and help create a wider culture of literacy in our partner communities. Localised content also provides the all important ‘mirrors’ in our collection; that is, books that allow children to see themselves in a story.

LFASKU00032

Eat
Amani Gunawardana
Fiction

We love this book because it provides a first entry to a lifelong love of reading, and that is what Library For All is all about! Eat is an early level reader, with bold illustrations and a quirky, humorous twist in the tale - proving that even simple literacy tools can be enjoyable and engaging for beginner readers.

LFASKU00544

Vura Sings For Her Sandals
Shirley TotoMangana
Fiction

We pride ourselves on curating a balanced collection with diverse representations, including strong female protagonists. Our collection embraces the Sustainable Development Goal that is boosting women’s opportunities. Like the fearless Vura, the team at Library For All isn't scared to roll up our sleeves and try to make a difference in the developing world.

Why Library For All

Library For All is a leading international not for profit publisher of high-quality, age appropriate, culturally relevant books and educational resources. We deliver books to communities where history, poverty or remoteness prevents access to traditional libraries. We’re there when books are not, turning stories from the communities we serve into engaging, illustrated children’s books.

Our library features books for elementary readers, with content balanced across fiction and non-fiction, and a range of themes that can easily be aligned to teaching curriculum.

Our library currently includes a Papua New Guinea collection, a Pacific Plus collection, and a culturally agnostic collection of titles known as Books That Travel.

To deliver on our mission to make knowledge accessible to all, equally, Library For All curates original books and open source titles, then uses its own globally available digital library application to share the content.

Alongside Library For All’s digital library solution we also offer a scalable, cost-effective wholesale print and distribution service to create physical libraries for schools, communities and families on demand.

Reading level guide

MANOA’S FIRST KULA TRIP (1, 2 & 3)

Jordon Dean
Fiction

This was the big day! Manoa was going to accompany his father and the other tribesmen on a Kula Trade trip to the faraway islands. This book represents a deep element of Papua New Guinean culture whereby boys come of age by participating in tribal traditions. The Kula Trade is an annual ceremonial exchange from the Milne Bay Province region. This 3 part story describes young Manoa’s excitement at finally being able to experience the journey he has seen his father make many times before. He loads baskets with food, hugs his mother and joins the men on their voyage. After they have traded the food for clay pots and baskets, they will return to enjoy a celebratory feast.

Library For All champions the inclusion of community stories, written by local authors who are keen to keep cultural stories alive for new generations. Books like this one operate as welcome mirrors for children in the related region, as well as fascinating windows for readers elsewhere in the world who are new to the traditions of Papua New Guinea.

ARE YOU NONDA ERWI?

Josephine Yaga
Fiction

Are you nonda Erwi? No, I’m nonda Guwumplg. A young girl searches the forest to find nonda Erwi. She meets many other types of nonda as she goes, but she must find nonda Erwi in order to make a tasty, healing soup for her sick mother. This story introduces the reader to different kinds of wild mushroom (nonda) as well as the concept of natural remedies. The illustrations will help children to identify these plants when exploring their own environments.

Library For All’s PNG collection is primarily written in English, meeting the requirements of the national curriculum. Books like this, however, can provide a gentle introduction to regional languages by incorporating local terms into the story. If the reader is new to this language – which is spoken in the Highlands Region – the words are put in context by the imagery. This serves to both expand the reader’s vocabulary and encourage an understanding of the diversity within Papua New Guinean cultures.

SUMMERTIME STORM

Kayt Duncan
Fiction

Summertime where I live is storm season. In tropical climates, summer is a time for blazing sunshine as well as fierce storm activity. Here, we meet a brave girl helping to calm her timid little brother as the wind whips up the washing and the lightning splits the sky. Boom! Kaboom! When she has finally had quite enough of the commotion, she shouts at the storm, insisting that it go out to sea. And do you know what? It does! Delightfully abstract pastel illustrations bring a rich texture to the pages of this empowering story about facing your fears. Rhyme, repetition and alliteration work to provide a balance of familiar words and challenging vocabulary for this reading level.

FIRST DAY AT SCHOOL

Cynthia Knox
Fiction

Timmy woke up and jumped out of bed. “Mama, I’m going to school for the first time!” The first day of school is exciting for Timmy, who can’t wait to put on his uniform and gulp down his breakfast. He walks with his mother to meet his new teacher, then settles in to learn his alphabet, numbers and lots of other new things. This short, early level text promotes school attendance as something positive and enjoyable. With a kind teacher, new friends to meet and so much to learn, Timmy role models school as a fun place to spend the day – not merely a means to an educational end! At the end of his first day, Timmy can’t wait to tell his Mama about everything he has experienced, providing an example of intergenerational engagement in the education process.

Spotlight on our Books That Travel Collection

SAMSON THE BABY ELEPHANT
Lynn May
Fiction
Serah is an African elephant. She is so happy! Her baby Samson has just been born.

This title takes the reader on a gentle journey through the gestation and early development stages of the elephant life cycle. Elephants carry their babies for almost two years. When they are born, they already weigh about the same as 700 bananas!

Stunningly illustrated, this is an example of a contemporary factual book for children, with charming animal characters accompanying facts and figures. While this title is educational, it's also carefully written to avoid the specific use of weights and measures, opting instead for relatable comparisons. This gives it mobility between reading communities, as well as empowering children to use their imaginations.

20 BUSY LITTLE ANTS
Robyn Cain
Fiction
One little ant sitting on a stone. Two little ants, now he’s not alone.
One thing ants are particularly good at is teamwork! This book teaches the numbers from 1 to 20 as a community of ants sets out to find food. The more friends they find, the easier it will be to get across the river, parcel up some snacks and carry them back to the nest.

From Library For All’s Books That Travel collection, this book is culturally-neutral and designed to be enjoyed by beginner readers anywhere. It provides an engaging alternative to traditional counting books by adding one ant at a time whilst still maintaining a narrative that encourages readers to progress through the book to find out what happens next. Rhyming language also makes this an entertaining ‘read aloud’ story.

Being And Belonging

A sense of belonging is one of the greatest gifts we can give to a child. Stories help to shape our sense of identity, including where we fit within a family, how we relate to our communities, and what we can learn from our environment. These stories highlight physical, social and spiritual identity.

Windows On The World

Children learn best in a reading environment that contains both mirrors and windows. These books invite children to learn about the big, wide world through a selection of texts that throw open the shutters and expose landscapes, lifestyles, animals and activities from the global community.
Health And Hygiene

Improved literacy has a positive role to play in encouraging a healthy lifestyle and safer communities. Library For All’s collection includes books that educate on personal hygiene, disease control, environmental sustainability, and disaster preparedness.
