DIGITAL LIBRARY
LIBRARY FOR ALL
FOR THE WORLD

We're committed to providing our partners with a complete end-to-end technology, content and publishing solution.

Program research and development

Our research and development team can assist you with program design, monitoring and evaluation planning, location feasibilities and benefits identification to align a deployment of Library For All with your education programs.

Content strategy

Our in-house content team is a global leader in designing collections of curated content that are age appropriate, culturally diverse, and suited to communities participating in our programs across the world.

Content acquisition and development

Our global publishing team of authors, illustrators and designers publishes more than 500 original titles per year, and can rapidly develop large collections of culturally relevant, age appropriate, content on-demand in any language for education and literacy programs.

Program Management

Our programs are managed by a team of skilled and experienced Masters level Program Managers ensuring activities are planned and delivered to schedule, benefits are measured and realised, risks are effectively controlled and budgets successfully managed.

World leading technology

Our technology team are experts in the design and development of software and hardware solutions for Library For All's digital collections including operating our technology in a low-bandwidth, or fully offline, environment.

Printing and distribution

Our collections are fully integrated in to the world's largest print-on-demand supply chain and can be quickly and easily deployed as physical books to compliment our digital library.

Data analytics

Our organisation is data-driven at its core and collects and analyses extensive library use data to inform the development of content and features for our application.

Illuminate - Library For All's Digital Dashboard

Our partners have full access to our business intelligence tools that provide real-time usable information to track the performance of education and literacy programs in the field.

Evolving to meet your changing needs

Our core capabilities are constantly evolving. Working in collaboration with our partners we are continually innovating, anticipating opportunities and developing our content and technology eco-system to increase measurable impact and return on investment. We're also committed to an impact framework that creates meaningful global change by embracing the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals.
